

WHO Health for All Film Festival

The World Health Organization is launching its first ever film festival on 16, 21 and 22 May 2020. The WHO Health for All Film Festival invites independent film-makers, production companies, NGOs, communities, students, and film schools from around the world to submit their original short films on health. The submissions can be on any health issue and/or social and environmental determinants of health for the first two categories (non-fiction and animation). The third category focuses on nurses or midwives to pay tribute to the International Year of the Nurse and Midwife in 2020. Only films completed between 1 January 2017 and 30 January 2020 are eligible for the festival. For each category, there is a prize of USD 5000 and a special student mention of USD 2500.

Closing date for entries is 30 January 2020.

Many thanks to spread the word with the following online multilingual tools, the webpages contain the application rules and access to submission tool:

Youtube link to embed everywhere!

English: <https://youtu.be/GporpcgO310>

Spanish: https://youtu.be/nFW_n5UWwOM

Multilingual webpages:

<https://www.who.int/film-festival>

<https://www.who.int/es/film-festival>

<https://www.who.int/fr/film-festival>

<https://www.who.int/ru/film-festival>

<https://www.who.int/ar/film-festival>

<https://www.who.int/zh/film-festival>

Social media kit: <https://who.canto.global/v/filmfestival>

Please join our inter-enterprise group on Workplace!

This group was created for all those who'd like to express their enthusiasm and/or give feedback about their actions in favor of this festival:

<https://worldhealthorg.workplace.com/groups/HealthforAllFilmFestival/>