

The French Society for Hospital Hygiene (SF2H)

The SF2H is a scientific society gathering 800 members in 2016 mainly nurses, medical doctors and pharmacists working in the field of healthcare-associated infection prevention. Our 2016 scientific productions are:

- Antisepsis of healthy skin before an invasive procedure in adults. Recommendations for Clinical Practice
- What measures to control infectious risk in immunocompromised patients? Formalized expert recommendations

In 2017 the scheduled scientific publications are:

- The update of our 2009 guidelines on Hand Hygiene
- The standard precautions in 2017

Among the projects led or supported by the SF2H, including infection control in all simulation training centers is an important and very strategic one. The SF2H is also part of a project of creating a medical specialty in the field of hygiene and infection control. Our society is also fighting to define a room for our specialty in the nurse advanced practices that are under development in France.
