

SIMPIOS is the Italian multiprofessional and multidisciplinary scientific society representing healthcare workers involved in infection prevention and control and patients safety.

The society promotes or participates in the production and the dissemination of guidelines and best practices, organizes a yearly National Congress/Seminar, regional events and accredited distant learning sessions.

SIMPIOS representatives participate also as experts in different Committees of the Ministry of Health and of the Environment.

GIMPIOS is the official quarterly journal of the Society.

In 2016 SIMPIOS promoted MuSICARe a Multi-societal Italian project on antimicrobial-resistance control and a consensus document on the diagnosis of sepsis.

For 2017 two major events are planned:

- First National Conference on the Immunization of Healthcare Workers, Pisa 27-28 march 2017
- National Conference on Cleaning and Disinfection in Healthcare, fall 2017.
